

Elizabeth Venturini

College Career Strategist

50 Words

Doting mid-life parents who want to avoid “the boomerang kid” effect, preserve their home equity and retirement savings, and set the stage so their teenagers launch fabulously in college with professional careers they love are turning to College and Career Strategist Elizabeth Venturini. She is the college career advisor their kids actually listen to as they craft their own paths to get the job done.

100 Words

Doting mid-life parents who want to avoid “the boomerang kid” effect, preserve their home equity and retirement savings, and set the stage so their teenagers launch fabulously in college with professional careers they love are turning to College and Career Strategist Elizabeth Venturini. She is the college career advisor their kids actually listen to as they craft their own paths to get the job done

Prior to starting her company CollegeCareerResults, Elizabeth successfully marketed services and products for Fortune 500 companies. Today she uses her business expertise and education to give parents the freedom to focus on their family and job; not devote hundreds of hours trying to learn the college admissions process and career paths and employment trends. She is dedicated to helping parents stop wondering if they did all they could to help get their child into college and graduate with a degree to succeed in today’s competitive workforce.

An often quoted expert, Elizabeth has appeared in over 50 media outlets including The Chicago Tribune, The SF Chronicle, The Sacramento Bee, MSN Careers, Careebuilder.com, LA Parenting and OC Parenting.

For Blogs and Bylined Articles

Elizabeth Venturini is a college and career strategist dedicated to helping parents stop wondering if they did all they could to help get their child into college and graduate with a degree to succeed in today’s competitive workforce. For more information on her services go to www.CollegeCareerResults.com